

Treating Our Furry Buds with Holy Flower

In July 2020, I had sold my farm and filed for divorce. I moved with my black lab/Australian Shepherd, Sammy to our new home to start a new and exciting chapter in our life. Sammy, now 6, deals with horrible separation anxiety. Whenever I must be away from him, he did not handle it well. I tried using a kennel to have him stay in while I was gone, and when I would return home, I found him on the couch and in the window looking ever so happy to see my arrival. He ended up ripping his left front paw dew claw off and damaged 4 front teeth escaping out of it. The kennel was mangled, and the door bent out. Another time he became very destructive due to the separation anxiety, was on fourth of July when I was invited to a friend's cookout for the afternoon and returned home to find my vertical blinds and horizontal blinds all ripped down including the hardware. This was a costly weekend to the tune of $1500. I replaced everything and had to have them custom cut to fit my windows as they were not standard sized.

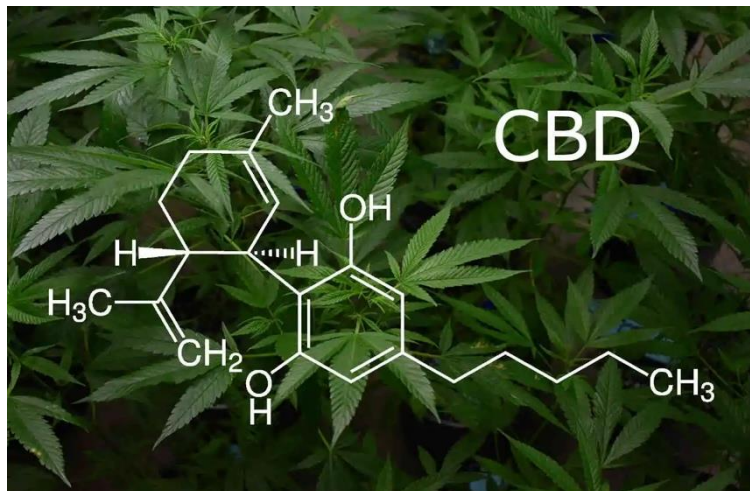

I had to figure out how to help Sammy. This had to be addressed swiftly and safely. I refuse to use prescription medications for myself as they are harmful with a laundry list of side effects. I didn't want Sammy to have to be on a prescription medication for the anxiety he deals with. I spoke with his veterinarian about this, and she had prescribed him tramadol. After giving him one pill, Sammy was so lethargic and not himself at all. I threw the entire bottle out and said never again will I make you have to take that.

I began to research article after article on Holy Flower, CBD and how it would help dogs and pretty much every other mammal on this floating rock blue and green rock we call earth. I already infused everything I eat as I swear by Holy Flower, and I thought why not create and infuse treat recipes that Sammy can enjoy as well that will help him with his anxiety and that will put my mind at ease when I must leave. And I did just that. Events happen all the time in our lives, and I know from my own life you either embrace them or you let them frustrate you and piss you off. I have had Sammy from the day he was born. I am a protective mother as well and will do whatever I have to, to help my 4-legged son out. I think as a dog parent we all would agree with how much we love them we would do whatever we had to.

Holy Flower is a miracle plant with so many awesome benefits. It helps treat a plethora of health issues and I am grateful for it. Anxiety in dogs for starters, is one health issue it effectively treats. In the U.S. alone, 89.7 million dogs are plagued with anxiety related issues annually. With that astronomical number, I am certainly not the only one dealing with this issue. Other health issues such as cancer, seizures, and arthritis all rank high in dogs and can effectively be treated with cannabis in the form of CBD.

CBD can effectively treat acute and chronic cases the forementioned health issues. A few examples of this involve an Australian holistic veterinarian Dr. Edward Bassingthwaight. Dr. B has had amazing success with treating dogs with cannabis, which is awesome news for dog owners. One particular pup who had a fast-growing tumor about 6 cm in diameter in her mammary gland. The chest x-rays showed it might be metastasis. The doctor treated this dog with CBD oil and other herbal medicines. The news is miraculous in that the tumor shrank to non-existence in just over 3 months and happy to report the healthy dog is still going strong 6 months later with no reoccurrences.

Another furry bud was also a patient of Dr. Bassingthwaighte, a Jack Russel that had a severe heart murmur and agonizing arthritis. He was prescribed whole plant extract containing CBD and some THC, that was diluted in 10 ml of cold pressed hemp seed oil. After only a month of using this, the heart murmur was much less severe, he had pep in his step and enjoy longer than normal walks. Dr. Bassingthwaighte says, "I simply can't explain the improved heart murmur. They normally don't get better."

Holy Flower is a powerful, miracle plant that is so much safer than the use of prescription medications to treat our furry friends. I see how much it helps Sammy and how calmer and happy he is, and his anxiety issues have greatly compared to three years ago. It takes time and patience for the treatment to be effective, but I reassure you that you will be quite pleased with your decision to give your dog cannabis as well for their health issues. To see the immense changes in Sammy that not only that have I recognized, but neighbors who remark positively about his progress as well. It honestly is like night and day what the infused treats have done for Sammy.

There are also quite a few companies that have specially formulated dog treats, tinctures, oils, as well as skin care that are infused with CBD. I would recommend checking any of the following out. Their websites are filled with a lot of educational information and they each carry a satisfaction guarantee that your furry bud is happy with their product, and it is effective, or they return your full payment.

HolistaPet <https://www.holistapet.ca>

Located in Commerce, CA, their website is very informative and includes a list of commonly asked questions regarding CBD and dogs. HolistaPet takes pride in creating natural remedies to help reduce the severity of your dog's mental and physical ailments. HolistaPet offers a 30-day 100% satisfaction guarantee on all their products. One article "What Your Dog's Zodiac Sign Says About them," is fun and informative about your special 4-legged buddy. HolistaPet's CBD treats and CBD capsules are 4 out of 4 stars.

HolistaPet was founded by a group of health-conscious enthusiasts with over 25 years of combined experience in the organic food industry. HolistaPet's belief that the combination of key superfood ingredients mixed with hemp is their secret to your dog's health and wellness. They offer everything from treats, to oils, and skin care available in 150 mg to 600 mg.

Petly Cbd <https://petlycbd.com>

Located in La Jolla, CA, their philosophy is health starts from within, which is their driving force behind Petly Cbd. The key points include:

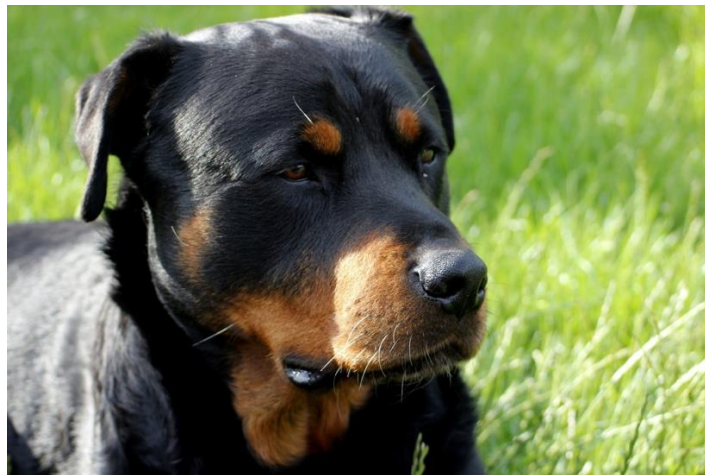

- Organic farming with strict guidelines using only 100% organic practices
- Raw hemp processing
- Proprietary extraction and solids separation
- Distillation
- THC removal and refining
- Lab testing each batch that is rigorous and in-house
- With every item sold, Petly Cbd donates $1 to pets in need

Petly Cbd also offers a pet education section on their website that covers topics on arthritis, depression, kidney disease, seizures, and fatigue

All Petly Cbd's products contain the cannabinoids:

- THCa      - $\Delta$ 9-THC      - $\Delta$ 8-THC      -CBDa      -CBD      -THCv
- CBDv      -CBN      -CBGa      -CBG      -CBC

Petly Cbd offers dog treats, CBD oil, and CBD dog food topper.

The Anxious Pet <https://theanxiouspet.com>

The Anxious Pet promises to be a company you can feel good about. Their products are veterinarian formulated. Their products are high quality and using only safe ingredients. They utilize third-party testing and offer a 60-day risk free guarantee if you feel not feel their products are effective for your fur baby. The promise The Anxious Pet makes to you, the consumer is: Honesty, Transparency, and Integrity.

The website also includes a learning section with informative topics covering: Fear, separation, natural wellness, aging and general wellness, managing anxiety and more. Their dog products offer full spectrum cbd oil, ranging from 400 mg to 900 mg. They offer oils, chews, soothing balm that provide a wide variety of effective treatments for your dog's health.

We invest a lot of time into our 4-legged best friends who bring us lots of laughter, happiness, and good vibes with all the love they shower us. Our dogs teach us to have fun and to stay young with their wanting to play and have a good time. Health is wealth for all of us including our pets. Our lives are stressful enough with everything we have going on and addressing our dog's health with a natural safe alternative to prescription medication to treat their health through the use of Holy Flower is one step in the right direction. I couldn't imagine a day without Sammy in it. He is a true 420 rockstar in my eyes. He has overcome many challenges in the past 5 years and incorporating Holy Flower into his diet has been a blessing for him.

Author: Amy L. Nussbaum
www.SammysPlace420.org